LEGISLATIVE LIBRARY

1980 ANNUAL REPORT

As it has been for over 100 years, the Legislative Library's main statutory obligation is the provision of information and research services to Members of the Legislative Assembly, to the personnel of government departments and agencies, and to special committees, commissions of inquiry and task forces appointed by the government from time to time. The Library's facilities are also used by the general public, particularly by the academic community, and by researchers, students, business, and local historians.

Service is given at two locations. The bulk of the Library's collections is housed in the Manitoba Archives Building, but a basic reference collection is kept in the Legislative Reading Room in the Legislative Building, where Members may also consult periodicals, government publications and newspapers. Materials and information pass back and forth between these two locations and other government areas by mail, courier, pneumatic tube and telephone.

In addition to the performance of these normal functions there have been other activities in the past year; 1980 has been a time of both assessment and of target-setting in all areas and departments of the Library. Basically, the main assessment has been one of space, although at the same time both the size of the collections and their worth have been re-evaluated as well. This new knowledge has helped staff to set goals and to better plan for future needs.

Space is of primary importance: in the near future the Manitoba Archives Building is scheduled to undergo alterations, with the Legislative Library and the Manitoba Archives expanding and supplanting the various agencies of government which have until recently occupied part of the building. When the building was renovated in 1975, it was anticipated that this enlargement would occur; the recent world-wide information explosion has brought with it an increased need for storage and shelf space in the Library, and the projected alterations are expected to meet these needs.

INFORMATION AND RESEARCH SERVICES

The need for information is being felt in the service areas of the Library also; reference and research librarians find that they are receiving a growing number of inquiries each year. In 1980, staff responded to some 13,697 requests for information and in-depth research. This is a 3.06% increase over the total for 1979. The time required to provide information has also increased; in 1980 staff spent 4.8% more time responding to inquiries than in the previous year. At the same time, the number of items circulated or consulted has fallen from a total of 48,290 in 1979 to 46,461 in 1980, a matter of 3.9%.

Inquiries cover a broad range of subjects, as diverse as the interests of public and government. In 1980, these included the following: vinyl chloride; windmills and wind-energy conversion; mandatory retirement; income security; Dr. Barnardo; local history and genealogical research; operating costs of the Royal Mint; the minimum wage; government regulations on various subjects; the Ombudsman; CRISP, SAFER and other tax credit programs; Provincial Board of Health history, and the Canadian constitution with proposed changes.

In connection with this last item, it is interesting to note that many of those involved in the recent hearing before the Manitoba Court of Appeal carried on research in the Legislative Library.

Information and Research Division staff members, in addition to their regular scheduled duties, participate in a number of other projects. Throughout the year, tours of the Library are conducted, and groups of students, teachers, librarians and members of professional organizations and societies come to visit and to observe. Such tours involve a time-consuming but extremely worthwhile expenditure of staff time. More time is spent in maintaining the files of clippings, pamphlets and ephemeral materials which are a valuable source of information. These files have been undergoing a re-organization, and in 1980 this house-cleaning was all but completed. So too was the up-dating of the indexes to the various political, biographical and historical scrapbooks of clippings which have been maintained in the Library for many years. Thanks to a crash program involving both staff and summer students, this valuable source of information is now more accessible to all.

In providing information service, the Library draws on the resources of other libraries. As a service to patrons, the Library borrows from other libraries the publications which the Legislative collection does not have. In 1980, the Library borrowed 102 items from other sources. In return, the Library's inter-library loan service lent 349 items to other institutions.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

Staff in the Technical Services Division of the Library is responsible for the processing of all publications coming into the Library; this involves the ordering, receiving, cataloguing, organizing, classifying and finally, the storing of all materials received from all sources. During 1980, the Library added some 84,000 items to its collections, an increase of 15% over the previous year.

The Library's procedures in dealing with this flood of material were, as usual, determined by costs, staff size, and available shelf space. Full cataloguing was given to 4,176 titles during the year, an increase of 20% over 1979. Cataloguing staff also continued a program of processing items in the collection which have never been catalogued. The Library has continued to honour its commitment to send an acquisition notice for each new fully catalogued item to the National Library of Canada for inclusion in the National Union Catalogue.

But cataloguing is a costly process, and so the bulk of materials received was given different treatment. Exchange and gift materials were screened on receipt, and unsuitable or unusable items were passed on to other government and university libraries and to the book exchange facility at the National Library of Canada. It is worth mentioning here that this exchange service has, in return, provided the Library with many much-needed items lacking in the collection or required for the binding program.

The majority of government publications received was not given full cataloguing, in line with general policy. Only the most important, such as royal commission, special committee or task-force reports and other publications of current public concern merit this treatment. The rest were processed so as to be available through the use of printed indexes, catalogues and checklists.

The publications of the Province of Manitoba receive more special treatment. All Manitoba publications of any importance are catalogued, and the Library is beginning to investigate the program of Cataloguing in Publication begun and coordinated by the National Library of Canada. The purpose of this program is to provide the National Library with cataloguing information being printed on selected government publications, allowing other libraries to catalogue and process these items more quickly and accurately. So far, the Legislative Libraries of both British Columbia and of Nova Scotia are participating, and are supplying the National Library of Canada with pre-cataloguing information for many of the publications of their own provinces; if the same procedure were to be adopted here, a cooperative service would be performed, and Manitoba's provincial publications would receive much wider notice across the country than present checklists provide.

THE COLLECTIONS

In order to make room on the shelves for additional materials, the Library has continued its practice of surveying and reviewing the collections, of filming rare or fragile items, of weeding out unusable or passe publications, and of making sure that present limited shelf space is used for relevant and useful materials. This is the kind of discipline which will enable the Library to meet the projected expansion of the building in an orderly way.

In addition to a general collection in the fields of history, political science, sociology, biography, and economics the Library has three major collections, all of which have generated considerable activity in 1980.

Government Publications Collection

The Legislative Library has a very large and comprehensive collection of government publications, making up the largest part of the total holdings of the Library. As with the general collection, the government publications collection is strong in the subject areas of public administration, politics, economics, management and history. But within these areas there is reflected such current interests as energy, pollution, inflation, geriatrics, unemployment and varieties of separatism. Governments are involved in these matters at all levels, and frequently their reports are of great public consequence.

During the past year, for example, the Library has received the following important reports: from the Government of Manitoba, the Report on Safety and Health in the Metallic Mining Industry in Manitoba, the Report on the Remuneration Paid to Manitoba's Elected Officials, and the Whiteshell Master Plan: an Overview of the Parks System with Objectives for the Whiteshell. Also added were the reports of federal-provincial and first ministers' conferences and those of all provincial and federal law reform commissions. "Le Vol a main armee au Quebec", the report of a working group set up to investigate the problem of armed robbery in Quebec, was only one of a number of important documents published by that province. From Ontario came the eight-volume Report of the Royal Commission on the Status of Pensions in Ontario and the long-awaited Report of the Commission of Inquiry into the Confidentiality of Health Information. Canadian federal government documents of importance include the First Report of the Commission of Inquiry concerning Certain Activities of the R.C.M.P., the Department of Environment's "Issues in Canadian Land Use", and the Science Council of Canada's "Nuclear issues in the Canadian Energy Context." The governments of the United States, Great Britain and Australia have published many important documents during the past year, as have international agencies such as the United Nations. These have been added to the Library's collection.

Although the Library has a special responsibility to collect and house the publications of the Province of Manitoba, these are only a small part of the huge number added each year. In 1980, the Library received and processed 10,368 Canadian federal government publications and 17,317 documents from the various provincial governments. Also received were 23,008 American government publications plus 7,115 from the United Nations and its agencies and 855 from Great Britain. Altogether in 1980, the Library received and processed some 59,000 government publications, an increase of about 8,000 or 15% over last year. This is quite a formidable figure, both in terms of shelf space and in terms of staff time spent in receiving and processing.

In terms of expense, this increase represents a bargain; much of this material is free, or nearly so, because of exchange and depository arrangements which save thousands of dollars. All Manitoba government and Canadian federal government publications are received free on deposit, and the Library is a selective depository for the publications of the Province of Ontario. Other depository arrangements involve the publications of such international agencies as the FAO and the ILO, and exchange agreements with the United States and British Governments bring the Library their publications in exchange for Manitoba's.

In dealing with this large amount of material, the Library has an on-going weeding program, already mentioned. This program creates space, but the Library's policy of cooperation with other libraries is even more helpful in lowering space pressures. A large number of specialized publications in the fields of science, aerospace, education and health are sent to university libraries, the Manitoba Department of Education Library, and the Library of the Manitoba Department of Health. Other materials, of no use to any of these, are sent to the book exchange centre of the National Library of Canada, from whom the Library obtains in return many useful and needed items free of charge.

The Library's major project in the field of government publications is proceeding slowly. This project involves the filming of all documents tabled in the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba, 1870-1980. The identification and listing of all items to 1930 has been completed so far. The post-1930 period is now being dealt with.

Rare Book Collection

The Library has one of the best collections of valuable western Canadianna in the country. It includes several special groups of books such as the Gunn and Ewart Collections and the Red River Library, the earliest library established in the province. The care of such a collection is a serious responsibility, and the Library has long felt the need of a thorough examination of its rare book holdings. In 1980 the Library undertook, for the first time, the evaluation of this collection and the revision of Library policy in dealing with such a valuable group of books.

In formulating policy, the Library kept in mind the following aims: to make available as much of the collection as possible to those who might wish to use it, to preserve the collection from wear and tear and from other deterioration, and so ensure the proper addition of worthwhile items.

Availability has been broadened by the acquisition of the Peel Bibliography on microfiche. This is the film version of Bruce Peel's landmark list of western rare books, a large number of which are already in the Legislative Library's rare book collection. This microfiche will permit public access to items previously denied circulation. Access to the Library's collection of local histories has been assured by the recataloguing of extra copies for the general collection, which is available to all users.

Preservation is being assisted by the purchase and use of film, as with the Peel Bibliography. Where possible, other materials in demand will be filmed where no film exists. The addition of a restoration specialist to the staff of the Manitoba Archives has given the Library a valuable source of advice and expertise regarding preservation techniques of all kinds.

The proper growth of the collection has been assured through the formulation of a clear acquisitions policy, although there is no doubt that budgetary considerations are likely to be crucial here. All in all, although much remains to be accomplished, the Library is pleased that guidelines have been set and that progress is being made.

Serials Collection

The Library's collection of periodicals and newspapers is extensive; at present over 400 periodicals and some 100 newspapers are being received regularly — a total of 80,274 separate items in 1980.

A large part of the newspaper collection consists of Manitoba daily and weekly newspapers — the collection and storage of which is the Legislative Library's special responsibility. At present, the entire collection of Manitoba newspapers has been filmed up to 1978. The last part of this program of filming was completed in 1980 and plans have been made to continue the project on a regular basis. The Library's collection of national newspapers is regularly replaced with microfilm editions, for more efficient storage and service.

The periodicals collection has been the focus of a major project during the past year, a reorganization which has involved the re-shelving of the entire collection, the elimination of extraneous materials and the basic cataloguing of several hundred titles. Subscriptions are being evaluated and a new system for ordering, receiving and processing periodicals has been instituted. A periodicals specialist has been appointed to oversee the project and to take charge of the collection, and it is hoped that the new arrangements will be both informative and efficient.

PUBLICATIONS

The Library regularly issues three publications as a service to the Members of the Legislature, to government personnel, to the public, and to the library community.

Manitoba Government Publications is a monthly listing of the various publications issued by the departments and agencies of the Manitoba Government. Information is provided as to the source of each item and its price, if any. The Library has been producing this monthly checklist since 1970. It is the only nearly comprehensive listing in existence of Manitoba's official publications, and it is a valuable and authoritative record of government programs, activities and policies. Other libraries have also found it a reliable record of the various departmental name and authority changes which have been made in the past decade. The Library has for several years been editing and printing cumulations of this checklist; volumes for the years 1975, 1976, 1977 and 1978 have been recently joined by that for 1979, while the volume for 1970-74 is still in process.

Selected Accessions, another monthly publication, lists a broad range of the most important new books and publications added to the Library's collection, and it keeps patrons abreast of the latest information and the most timely reading available. Members of the Legislature and government personnel find that a phone call to the Library will reserve any of these items.

Both the monthly checklist and the monthly listing of accessions are sent free to a large mail listing of interested persons, agencies, and organizations. The Library's third publication, the yearly cumulation of the monthly checklist already mentioned above, is available at the Office of the Queen's Printer with other priced publications of the Manitoba Government.

STAFF

At the conclusion of 1980 the Library staff was made up of seventeen permanent positions, with term assistance of 4 SMY. During the year, the following persons joined the staff on a term basis: Kim Marr, Sheila Miller, Helen Nation; the following term employees left the staff: Margaret Ashley, Coreene Caverly, Marjorie Ferguson, Mary Lynn Moffat. Diane Janzen, Diana Ringstrom, and Isilda Tavares left permanent positions during the year, and Karen Landry joined the permanent staff. Owing to the illness of the Legislative Librarian, Clementine Combaz, the Assistant Legislative Librarian, Joyce Irvine, was appointed Acting Legislative Librarian in September.

During the summer months, two students were employed under the Student Temporary Employment Program (S.T.E.P.) and a third student joined the staff from the program for the disabled under S.T.E.P. funding. The Library has found that handicapped students are highly motivated and that they can make a valuable contribution in a short period of time. All students were given the responsibility of indexing newspaper articles as part of the catch-up scrapbook program already mentioned.

Twice during the year students from Red River Community College spent several weeks of on-the-job practical work in the Library as part of their training as Library Technicians. Such students receive as broad an exposure to library techniques as a busy staff can give them; the Library looks upon this service as an investment in a future pool of professional talent.

Staff training and development is another investment in future service. At various times during the year staff members have attended and participated in seminars and workshops offered by the Manitoba Library Association in such areas of interest as automation, administration, and the new Anglo-American cataloguing rules. Other staff members have taken part in the meetings of the Manitoba Association of Library Technicians. Librarians of the Information and Research Division have attended training sessions in the use of such on-line information systems as Dialog and Can SD1, and workshops offered by Statistics Canada. Others have attended information meetings of the recently formed Manitoba On-Line Users' Group.

Members of staff have also paid visits to other libraries, among them the Legislative Library of British Columbia, the National Library of Canada, and the Library of the University of British Columbia. In June, the Legislative Librarian, Clementine Combaz, attended the Annual Conference of the Canadian Library Association held in Vancouver, B.C.

Respectfully submitted,

Joyce Devine

PROVINCIAL ARCHIVES

1980 ANNUAL REPORT

While the Provincial Archives continued to acquire, preserve, and service historical documents for the people of Manitoba and visitors to the province, the year was particularly characterized by an increased emphasis on planning for future developments. Many archival institutions throughout Canada are re-evaluating their roles and capabilities in the light of the report on Canadian Archives[1] by the Consultative Group for the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada. The prevailing theme of this report is the need for institutions to respond to broadening public demand and new directions in historically based research by developing a comprehensive archival network throughout the country. The report recommends that national, regional, and local archives forge a coordinated and cooperative system in all aspects of archival work, from acquisition and description of materials to a greater sharing of professional and technical expertise. The Consultative Group also highlighted the rapidly advancing rate of deterioration of archival holdings throughout Canada, and estimated that "by the turn of the century 90% of paper records now in archives will no longer be able to be handled . . . largely bearing on the history of Canada in the 20th century."[2] Even before this report appeared, Manitoba Archives' staff was heavily engaged in studying the institution's existing priorities and services.

Conservation of archival holdings and a greater commitment to the provinces' public records of enduring value emerged as matters of especially pressing concern. Consequently, many of the planning exercises focused on developmental strategies for these two aspects of the Archives' mandate. By the end of the year, detailed specifications for an advanced paper conservation laboratory were completed, as well as recommendations for modifying the Manitoba Archives Building to accommodate additional staff and the anticipated growth in collections during the next few years.

Statistics gathered on various public services offered by the Archives showed a decrease in individual research visits, but increases in remote inquiries and contacts (correspondence and telephone calls):

1. Canadian Archives, Report of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada by the Consultative Group on Canadian Archives, chaired by Ian Wilson (Ottawa, 1980).
2. Canadian Archives, p. 94.

The decline in the number of research visits, the first in many years, seems partly attributable to temporary changes in courses offered by the University of Manitoba which reduced the number of students using the Archives' holdings in studying the province's history, and to the Department of Education not giving in 1980-81 a course in the history of education in Manitoba. The increases in remote inquiries appears to reflect the number of local centennial celebrations anticipated in the province during the coming years and to a growing interest in family history.

The Archives acquired numerous collections and items of considerable significance during the year, and staff made appreciable progress in cataloguing and describing some parts of the holdings. The valued contributions of many volunteers played a significant role in enabling staff to concentrate on reducing some of the institution's backlog of collections to be processed. Substantial staff additions during the year, particularly in the Hudson's Bay Company Archives (H.B.C.A.), has begun having a major impact on the level of curatorial care and services provided for the collections of the Manitoba Archives.

In sum, 1980 was a year of considerable achievement for the staff, and should lay the foundation for notable developments during the next half decade especially in areas of acquisition and preservation.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY ARCHIVES

Forty percent of the 1,846 research visits made to the Hudson's Bay Company Archives in 1980 were from outside the Province. The researchers came from Japan, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, the Yukon and Northwest Territories, and six of the ten Provinces. Reference inquiries answered by mail numbered 979 and by telephone 871. In both instances this is an increase over last year.

Accessions for the year from the Hudson's Bay Company included 20 linear feet of personnel files from the Northern Stores Department, 1920-1955; and Minutes of the Canadian Committee Office, Winnipeg, 1912-1970. One of the most important accessions received was the correspondence of William McMurray, Inspecting Chief Factor of the Company. The 216 pieces date from 1845-1872 and include letters from such well-known administrators as Governor George Simpson and Governor William MacTavish. The papers were acquired from a descendant under the National Archival Appraisal Board programme.

With the aid of a grant from the Office of the Secretary of State the Archives was able to purchase paintings and letters by auction at Sotheby's and Christie's in London. The portraits are of Thomas Bunn, his wife, and father-in-law. The paintings, commissioned in the 1780's, are the work of the well-known English portrait painter John Opie. The 14 letters, ten of which were written by Thomas Bunn, date from 1804 to 1875. Bunn was an officer in the Hudson's Bay Company and after his retirement became one of the leading settlers of Red River.

The microfilming of the Archives from 1871 to 1904 continues. One hundred and fifty-nine negative reels of 35mm film, totalling 15,900 feet, were produced and 143 reels of positive film amounting to 42,900 feet. In keeping with the Export Agreement with the Government of Great Britain, 100 reels of positive film were shipped to the Public Record Office at Kew. One hundred reels of negative film and the same number of positive film were also sent to the Public Archives of Canada.

The number of staff allocated to the Hudson's Bay Company Archives was increased from four to eight in the last half of 1980. This increase in staff is enabling the Archives to concentrate on acquisitions, and on the classification and cataloguing of records. The first block of records to be catalogued will be those of the Land Department. The 375 linear feet of records should be available to the public in June 1982.

The Archives library, containing about 3,000 volumes, was catalogued. The library includes many rare and out-of-print volumes. The finding aid for Governor George Simpson's Inward Correspondence 1821-1860 was edited and checked. This block of correspondence is one of the most important and extensively consulted series of 19th century records in the Archives.

PHOTOGRAPH AND PICTURE COLLECTION

Slightly more than one-third of the research visitors to the Archives employed the resources of the photograph and picture unit. As in the past, a substantial proportion of the unit's time was devoted to assisting researchers, controlling the use of the holdings, and processing orders for reproduction. Remaining time was given over to accessioning, identifying, and describing components of the collection. Much of this work concentrated on the Canadian Airways Limited Collection, which includes nearly 3,000 photographs.

Revenue from reproduction orders dropped from $12,581 in 1979 to $11,465 in 1980.

Architectural Plans	235	17	2

Approximately 1,700 negatives were separated from accompanying prints and then removed from circulation. Eleven volunteers contributed to the identification of more than 1,500 Winnipeg Free Press negatives, and two volunteers copied Peter Kuch cartoons from the Free Press as part of the process leading to full identification and description of the original cartoons presented to the Archives.

The Archives acquired a painting of Sir William Whyte by Nicholas Grandmaison from the Hudson's Bay Company, and also four watercolours of early Winnipeg by E.J. Hutchins. An 1883 lithograph of the interior of Upper Fort Garry was added to the holdings.

An original 1872 Boundary Commission albumen print and the 1875 oil painting of the Forks of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers received professional conservation treatment by the Public Archives of Canada and the Canadian Conservation Institute respectively. We are grateful for this assistance.

During the year, photographs were donated or loaned for copying by fifty-eight individuals or institutions. To these, as to all our other donors, we express our sincere gratitude.

DOCUMENTS COMMITTEE

The Documents Committee met eight times during the year with the Provincial Archivist presiding as Chairman and the Assistant Provincial Archivist serving as Secretary. The Deputy Attorney-General was represented by A.E. Billett and J.W. Hunter; the Provincial Auditor by J.K. Bothe, T.W. Paterson, R.C. Conklin, R. Mayer, M.E. Nichol and G. Kowal; the Deputy Minister of Finance by D. Purdey and D. Wood; and the Deputy Minister of Government Services by R.C. Heinrichs.

Retention and Disposal Schedules were approved for certain records of the Administration and Internal Services Branches, Department of Economic Development and Tourism; the Employment Standards, Personnel and Accounting Branches of the Department of Labour and Manpower; the Care Services, Adult Corrections, Support Services, Financial Services and Agency Relations Branches of the Department of Community Services and Corrections; the Autopac Services, General Claims, Marketing, Data Control, Commercial Underwriting; Special Investigation Unit, Personnel and Salvage Departments of the Manitoba Public Insurance Corporation; the Motor Vehicle, Central Records Office, Contract, Bridge, Traffic, Materials and Research, Maintenance Management, Computer Services, Accounts, Personnel, Payroll and Planning and Design Branches of the Department of Highways and Transportation; the Teacher Certification and Records Branch of the Department of Education; and the various branches of the Manitoba Hydro-Electric Board.

Ministerial approval was subsequently given to all the schedules approved by the Documents Committee.

STAFF

Peter Bower arrived in February from the Public Archives of Canada to become Provincial Archivist. He is the third person to hold this position, following Hartwell Bowsfield, 1952-67, and John Bovey, 1967-1979. The other change in the staff responsible for the provincial collections was the resignation of Cathy Mudry, Clerk Typist, in September. Her position was filled by Gigi Restall.

There were several changes in the Hudson's Bay Company Archives' staff. Shirlee A. Smith, Keeper of the H.B.C.A. and Evelyn Kempa, Secretary to the Keeper, are the only members remaining from the past year. New employees, filling new positions or vacancies created by the resignations of Gordon Elenbaas and Garron Wells include Maureen Dolyniuk, Research Assistant; Michele Fitzgerald, Assistant Archivist (Classification); Deborah Moore, Microfilm Inspector; Alex Ross, Archivist (Classification); and Mark Walsh, Assistant Archivist (Microfilm). One vacancy on the H.B.C.A. staff will be filled early next year. Term position appointees also made valuable contributions during that period when the staff was not at full complement. Kathleen Gillespie catalogued the Hudson's Bay Company Archives' Library; Sonia Perus typed the author, subject, and title cards for the library holdings; and Margaret Parker standardized the entries and headings for the George Simpson inward index.

The staff will be brought to complement with the addition of Charles A.E. Brandt as Chief Conservator, Artistic and Historic Works on Paper. Although Mr. Brandt will not join the staff on a permanent basis until January 1981, he did spend several weeks at the Archives during 1980 as a consultant for the designing of the paper conservation laboratory.

As in past years, the assistance of students employed from May to August by the Student Temporary Employment Programme enabled the staff to maintain an effective level of public service in the Research Room during the busy summer months. Darrell Noakes assisted researchers in the Research Room and prepared box lists for some collections. Debra Lee O'Halloran provided clerical assistance in the typing of church register cards, finding aids, and correspondence, and in the electrostatic copying of documents for researchers. Cindy Aumuller and Maureen Peitsch worked with the Hudson's Bay Company Archives indexing the land department maps and the London inward correspondence.

The National Archival Survey was again funded by the Department of the Secretary of State as part of its Youth Employment Programme. Three teams working in Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Winnipeg, and the Archdiocese of St. Boniface, located and described records of various types not housed in public repositories. Barry Hyman and Gilbert-Louis Comeault provided supervision for the survey teams.

In May the Employment and Youth Services Branch of the Department of Labour and Manpower provided funding for a Coordinator of Volunteers to establish a Volunteers in Public Service programme at the Archives. Initially funded for four months, the programme was extended for the balance of the fiscal year because of the high levels of volunteer interest and the success of the programme. Under the able direction successively of Coordinators Lynne Beyak, Linda Girling, and Erna Klassen a total of 36 volunteers contributed almost 1500 hours (202 days) of their time to various projects. A total of 22 projects were undertaken, including photograph identification from the Winnipeg Free Press and Royal Winnipeg Ballet Collections; the preparation of finding aids to the papers of the Deputy Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, the parish files, the papers of Dr. Harry Medovy, the Children's Hospital, and the Valentine Winkler Collection; the typing of indices to the church registers, the Canadian Airways Limited Collection, and the Hudson's Bay Company Archives' library; the reboxing and relabelling of microfilm into acid-free boxes, and so forth. The projects attracted volunteers from all age groups, from high school students to senior citizens with a variety of training and career experience. Considerable staff time was devoted to training sessions, supervision, and the checking of work. The Archives is most grateful for the contribution of these dedicated volunteers.

ACTIVITIES

The Provincial Archivist addressed or gave papers to a variety of organizations and groups during the year, including history graduate students and faculty of the Universities of Winnipeg and Manitoba, grade school teachers, the National Conference for Social Science and Science educators, and the Association of Manitoba Archivists.

Shirlee Anne Smith, Keeper of the Hudson's Bay Company Archives, attended the Association of Canadian Archivists annual meeting in Montreal, June 2-4. During the same month she gave a paper entitled "Approaches to Historical Research" to the annual meeting of the Canadian Authors Association held in Winnipeg. In September she received duty leave to attend the International Congress on Archives and spent three days at Beaver House, the London headquarters of the Hudson's Bay Company. As the Manitoba member of the National Archival Appraisal Board of Canada, Mrs. Smith assisted in evaluating archival collections presented to the Provincial Archives and the University of Manitoba Archives. In December she spoke to the Association of Manitoba Archivists on the implementation of the National Archival Appraisal Board programme.

Gilbert-Louis Comeault, Archivist, again served as the western correspondent of La Chronique, the monthly bulletin of l'Association des archivistes du Quebec, and as the officer responsible for La Societe Historique de Saint-Boniface's archives section. In April he spoke on Provincial Archives' holdings at a seminar sponsored by the Association of Manitoba Museums, Northern Region, held at Swan River. As part of the exchange programme initiated by La Societe Historique de Saint-Boniface, within the framework of a Manitoba-Quebec cooperative agreement, he attended the annual meeting of L'Association des archivistes du Quebec held in Montreal in May. He presented a paper entitled "Le defi archivistique: redefinir les priorites en fonction des annees 80" at a Parks Canada Riel Project Workshop held in Winnipeg in September.

Elizabeth Blight, Archivist, went to Edmonton in June to select from duplicate maps of the National Map Collection, Public Archives of Canada, which were offered to the Provincial Archives through the diffusion programme. In September she attended a seminar at Brandon University on the Conservation of Paintings and Works of Art on Paper. In October she attended a one-week seminar of Cartographic archivists in Ottawa, which also included tours of the facilities of the map collections of the Bibliotheque

Nationale and Archives Nationale in Montreal. As one of the founding members of the Association of Manitoba Archivists she was elected treasurer and member of the executive responsible for membership. She also served as Manitoba coordinator for the membership committee of the Association of Canadian Archivists. In March she gave a talk on Rosetta E. Carr, an early Winnipeg photographer, as part of the Dalnavert Lecture Series sponsored by the Manitoba Historical Society.

ACCESSIONS

The practice of listing most acquisitions at the end of the annual report is continued as an essential reference tool in the absence of an up-to-date published general inventory of the Archives' holdings. Various recent accessions have not been brought under full archival control, and therefore were not available for general research by the end of 1980. Nevertheless, some of these units are noticed immediately below as many will become available during the course of the coming year. Material received, but not yet prepared for general research, include documentation from or relating to Kildonan Presbyterian Church; Flin Flon Steelworkers Union; the Children's Hospital; the Children's Hospital School of Nursing Alumni Association; Dr. Harry Medovy, noted pediatrician; Ian Turnbull, a former provincial cabinet minister; Darwin Chase, a former mayor of Fort Garry; James Cox Aikins and James Albert Manning Aikins, both former Lieutenant-Governors of Manitoba; the Canadian Authors Association; the Manitoba Historical Society; and papers of Nan Shipley, Dr. James William Armstrong, James Green Stewart, and Barry Potyondi. A major addition to the audio visual collection was the Focus Program of Manitoba material transferred from the Red River Community College. The Collection, not yet accessioned, includes source tapes and duplicates of master tapes relating to women, native studies, labour, politics, health, agriculture, the economy, and Manitoba communities and institutions for the years 1972 to 1977.

Numerous new units were introduced to the Archives in 1980, and significant additions made to others acquired in previous years. New collections from the broad category of associations include papers of the Boy Scouts of Canada, Girl Guides of Canada, St. Agnes Guild, Middlechurch Home of Winnipeg, Canadian Amateur Synchronized Swimming Association, and the Farmers Union of Canada. Additions were contributed by the Canadian Red Cross Society, College of Family Physicians of Canada, Provincial Council of Women, University Women's Club of Winnipeg, and the Manitoba Women's Institute, Roland District.

The sons of the late Robert Graham, former Crown Prosecutor and Police Magistrate for the City of Winnipeg 1911-44, loaned his journals and recollections for microfilming. Mark Danzker, alderman for the City of Winnipeg, 1959-69, presented papers relating to his career for the years 1931-79. Doug Rowland, former Member of Parliament for Selkirk, donated an extensive collection of papers covering his career from high school days to the present. Saul Cherniack, M.L.A., added election, cabinet, and ministerial files, 1960-77, to his collection. Peter Fox, a former speaker of the Legislative Assembly, presented his daily journals for the years 1972 to 1977.

The volume of public records transferred from departments increased substantially this year. Especially noteworthy was the transfer of the parish files from the Department of Natural Resources. These files, relating to the ownership and patenting of the parish lands in Manitoba were organized, placed in new file folders, and re-boxed by volunteers. Unfortunately, the deteriorated condition of many of these records requires the Archives to restrict or limit circulation for the time being. Of interest to researchers in labour history are records selected from the Employment Standards Branch and transferred to the Archives. The records contain child employment permits and complaints by employees and employers, and cover a sample of Manitoba industry and commerce.
